Los Gringos Voters Refuse to Listen to Mr. Max Gutierrez

The people of Los Gringos want no more of Max Gutierrez, county commissioner, elected as a republican and now running on the so-called fusion ticket.

Which Gutierrez came to address a meeting at Los Gringos Sunday night, nearly all the people in the hall got up and walked out, saying they did not care to hear what he had to say.

Gutierrez was taken aback by their action but after recovering from the shock proceeded with a short speech to the scattering few in the hall.

The action of the voters at Los Gringos has been the sensation of the campaign in that part of the county.

MECHEM MAKES VOTES IN SPEECH AT LAS CRUCES; SENATOR FALL RIDICULES LEAGUE OF NATIONS

SPECIAL TO THE HERALD

LAS CRUCES, N. M., Oct. 23.

Senator A. H. Fall and Judge Mechem spoke here Saturday night to a record breaking audience in the local arena. Extra seats had been supplied by boards laid on knees, but in spite of these preparations standing room was all occupied and the stage full.

An automobile parade, bright with colored lights led the way to the hall, preceded by the State College band. Scores of cars were in the parade and all packed with people.

Senator H. E. Holt of Las Cruces acted as chairman of the meeting and prepared the way for Senator Fall by a few remarks on the league of nations, and the certainty that Dona Ana county would come in on election day with substantial majorities for the republican party from top to bottom.

Ridiculous Sections of League.

Senator Fall, as New Mexicans all know, is an authority on the league of nations subject and it needs no recapitulation of his stand. However, in the minds of all those who have been at sea on the subject the talk of the senator could leave no room for further doubt, as was evidenced by the frequent applause and laughter, as he expounded some of the ridiculous requirements imposed on us as a member of the league; for instance to guarantee at the cost of our blood and treasure that the original copy of the Mohammedan Koran, now in Germany, should be returned to the king of Hedjaz; that the skull of a former British should be returned by Germany to the king of Hedjaz, etc.

The speaker explained that article 19 was not original at the hands of the president, but was an exact copy word for word, of an amendment offered by a Canadian to the constitution of the league to enforce peace of New York, some years ago. He also explained that during the Taft administration, when the subject of arbitration treaties between the United States on the one hand, and England and France on the other, one of the articles (article 2) incorporated practically the same words as now contained in article ten of the league, by which a high commission was to consider and "advise" as to matters of dispute between the contracting parties.

As a spectator in the gallery of the senate, Mr. Fall heard Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska (champion of the league in the senate) argue against his article and declare that he would "die in his tracks in the senate" before he would consent that any high commission should advise the United States senate or any other body of Americans how to settle matters that were purely American, or to give up to any such high commission any of the constitutional rights of the U. S. senate. His position was supported by the practically solid democratic membership, and nearly all republican senators, and an amendment was offered and adopted that specifically reserved for settlement and decision all matters relating to immigration, debts of states and of the United States, and board traffic, in fact, all matters that were considered purely American, including the Monroe doctrine.

Factor What They Once Opposed.

The words of the senator to the amendment by Senator Lodge to article ten contained practically the same wording as contained in the amendment offered by the senator from Georgia and supported by Senator Hitchcock and thirty other senators who now oppose the same amendment to article 10. Senator Fall wondered if the fact that President Taft was not a democrat had anything to do with their opposition. The conclusion of his speech was greeted with cheers for the senator.

Mr. Holt, after a few remarks on the famous league, then introduced Judge Mechem, and the audience gave him a rousing greeting.

The outstanding feature of Judge Mechem's speech was the fact that he at no time questioned the integrity of his opponent, had no harsh words of censure, even admitted that in general Mr. Hanna was perfectly sincere, except in one particular—his attitude toward taxes by land. This Judge Mechem, while tending as a worthy court, explained was an inevitable one if the public schools and universities, normals, etc., were to be maintained in efficiency, and the program of good roads continued. As for himself he said he did not propose and would not support any movement that would take the state backward. He believed that there were places where taxes could be cut to some extent, where useless officers could be done away with, but he would not make rash and impossible promises for the sake of votes. What he promised to do he would do to the utmost of his ability; therefore he would be moderate and sane in his promises.

Talks Continued Senate.

Afterwards the speech of Judge Mechem was an example of what we have been expecting of him—plain common sense, common sense, intelligent audience, and not a speech calculated to fool the people up to November 2. Mechem made votes and friends.

After the speaking was over and Judge Mechem was meeting the audience individually, one gray haired lady stepped up to the judge and said: "Mr. Mechem, you have made one vote tonight, and that is mine. I believe a man of your type is what we want for governor." "Thank you, madam," said the judge.

The result of this meeting will be a substantial majority for Judge Mechem on Nov. 2. He made a much better impression on local voters than did Judge Hanna and his unfair and unbusinesslike charges against his opponent. One is a gentleman, the other a politician, said a man in the audience after the meeting.

$18.50 to $40

These are really Junior Coats, but the man who wears a 36 or smaller is decidedly in luck. He can get a good overcoat for $18.50 to $40.00 that would cost, even at our store, $30.00 to $60.00 in larger sizes.

We purposely purchased a larger stock of these small size overcoats than the population of Albuquerque warrants, because we wanted to save the man who can wear a 36 or smaller $10 or more on his overcoat.

Light and heavy weight coats at these prices. Ulsters and ulsterettes, good single and double breasted fitted models. Every color and weight overcoating of the season to choose from.

They're real good coats—they're BETTER VALUES. See them!
